INTEGRATING WELLBEING INTO THE ECONOMIC ENGINE - A HOLISTIC APPROACH TO PRODUCTIVE PERFORMANCE

OVERVIEW

In today's rapidly evolving digital workplace, employee health has moved from a peripheral concern to a fundamental pillar of organisational success and long-term growth. Organisations now face a triple challenge - the silent epidemic of work-related stress and mental health struggles, the growing social burden of substance and drug abuse quietly but detrimentally affecting the workforce, and the necessity of optimising productivity in a competitive economy. Simultaneously, a positive shift is visible as the working class embraces active lifestyles, evidenced by the surge in company-organised sporting events and fitness clubs.

The Corporate Health and Wellness Excon (exhibition and conference) acknowledges that human capital is the primary driver of corporate success. By aligning organisational culture with health-relevant personality traits such as conscientiousness (for focus and self-discipline) and emotional stability (for stress resilience), companies can mitigate the risks of absenteeism and presenteeism. The Excon serves as a vital ecosystem where employers, employees, and wellness providers converge. For health insurers, pension funds, and medical service providers, this platform offers a unique opportunity to engage directly with institutional clients, promote preventative healthcare, and address the long-term financial implications of wellness. Furthermore, by including churches and chaplaincies, the event recognises the critical role of spiritual and psychosocial support in fostering a resilient workforce, ensuring a truly holistic approach to institutional health. For employers, this is an opportunity to empower their workforce through knowledge-sharing and free health screening.

This two-day event integrates high-level policy strategy with direct community impact, creating a seamless link between executive vision and employee wellness. On day one, the Executive Wellness Conference brings together corporate leaders, insurers, and pastoral care providers to establish strategic alignment. Simultaneously, the Public Health Screening Expo launches, continuing into day two to provide employees with immediate, hands-on access to diagnostics and preventative care. By running these streams in parallel, the Corporate Health and Wellness Excon ensures that organisational health commitments are transformed into tangible, real-world benefits for the workforce.

The Corporate Health and Wellness Excon is more than an event - it is a movement to redefine the economic engine of Zimbabwe. We are bridging the gap between high-level executive strategy and tangible employee vitality. Will you be part of the solution?

FOR THE EMPLOYER

Move beyond basic compliance and transform your organisational culture into a high-performance, resilient powerhouse. Register your employees for free health screening at the health and wellness exhibition.

FOR THE HEALTHCARE SERVICES PROVIDER

Gain unparalleled, direct access to institutional clients and workforce markets actively seeking health, diagnostic, and psychosocial solutions.

FOR THE HEALTH & LIFE INSURANCE PROVIDER

Your presence offers leaders the tools to move beyond basic insurance compliance into holistic workforce health and long-term retention.

FOR THE FUNERAL INSURANCE & SERVICES PROVIDER

Position your services as a critical pillar of dignified employee welfare and community impact, placing your brand directly in front of the decision-makers responsible for employee benefit structures.
